
Prepositions

Prepositions

A preposition is a word which precedes a noun or pronoun in a sentence and tells something about its relation with another word in the sentence.

Types of prepositions:

1. For

Usages: to denote the duration of time, distance or purpose

E.g.

Time duration: He studied for an hour.

Distance: We walked for a mile to find the shelter.

Purpose: He came here for the drawing competition.

2. Since

Usages: to denote something happening from the past and still happening. Since is used when we mention the exact point in time when it started.

E.g. They are selling umbrellas since 1980.

Imp concept: For and since are confusing to use in reference with time. Keep in mind "for" is used when you are using a countable unit of time and since is used when you are telling the exact point of time when it started. Try substituting "how many" or "when", if "how many" fits then use for and if "when" seems appropriate use "since".

E.g.

Incorrect: She has been studying since four hours.

Correct: She has been studying for four hours.

3. From

Usages: to denote cause of something, source of something or originating place of someone.

E.g.

Rohan is suffering from cricket

got this message from Ravi.

I am from Dehradun.

4. Between

Usages: for referring to two persons or things, also used for referring a position with respect to two locations.

E.g.

A cricket match was played between India and Australia.

My mother divided the chocolates between me and my brother.

There is a big market between my school and my home.

5. Among

Usages: for referring more than two persons or things.

E.g.

We shared chocolates among ourselves.

Wrong: The chocolates were shared between the class.

Correct: The chocolates were shared among the class.

6. Behind

Usages: for denoting something is at the back of something.

E.g.

There is a park behind the school.

7. Over

Usages: for denoting movement, a position at a higher level than something, for completely covering or engulfing something, to denote an extended period of time, or to denote something is more than a specific number.

E.g.

Birds were flying over the trees.

He came over to me and asked for my pen.

I put the blanket over my face.

The king rules over the kingdom for over a decade.

There were over 100 guests at the party

8. Above

Usages: Above is used for denoting "higher than". It is not used when something touches or covers something.

Incorrect: The plane was flying 500 meters over the ground.

Correct: The plane was flying 500 meters above the ground. (500 meters higher than the ground)

Incorrect: Ram put the blanket above the shivering beggar.

Correct: Ram put the blanket over the shivering beggar.

9. Under

Usages: Under and below are almost the same. Although, there are some slight differences. Under is used to denote that something is below or at a lower level than something else. It gives an impression of layers.

E.g.

My umbrella is lying under the bed.

He hid under the table.

10. Below

Usages: To denote something is at a lower position or level.

E.g.

They saw a tiger in the valley below the mountain.

11. Along

Usages: To denote movement beside a path on a line.
