
Preposition (in, into, inside)1. In

Usages: Denotes position or movement within something.

E.g.

The teacher is sitting in the class.

Incorrect: He is swimming into the swimming pool.

Correct: He is swimming in the swimming pool.

2. Into

Usages: Denotes a movement from outside of something into something.

E.g.

Incorrect: He jumped in the swimming pool.

Correct: He jumped into the swimming pool.

3. Inside

Usages: Inside has a similar meaning as "in" but is used when the emphasis is on location. It also used to give a feeling of enclosed within or something which is contained within something but cannot be seen from outside.

E.g.

It was very cold inside the room.

What is inside that box?
